You can use the following lines to take notes for your speech:

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Here is an idea of how you could do your presentation:

"My name is Calias. I live on a quiet street in Athens, near the Agora. I work painting vases, amphorae, and cups with scenes of heroes, gods, and battles. I firmly believe that images can tell stories just like words. I dream that my works will reach other cities, and that someone, upon seeing them, will imagine the adventures I once imagined myself. I am proud of my steady hand and my patience. Sometimes I fear that my art is not valued as much as that of sculptors or poets. I would like to change the way some people see ceramics: not just as useful objects, but as windows into the soul of Greece. My greatest wish for the future is that my drawings continue to speak when I am no longer here."
